FALL Fashion NEWS

PARIS FASHIONS

Trimmings, Scarves, And Hats

Trimmings go far to make the new dresses look right or wrong. Embroidery is general, in silks, metal threads, and braids. Schiaparelli's belts on her first Empire evening dresses are embroidered in designs copied from that period. Brugere works the front of her bodices in metal threads, braids, and coloured silks. Worth's corset and sleeve decorations are elaborate. Mainbocher puts embroidery on afternoon skirts and bodices; it is frequently a fine black braiding or jet beading.

Scarves for tailored coats and jackets are strong in colour and design. Broadly striped and checked silk, fringed at the ends, is looped under the chin, or tucked into the coat; bright yellow and blue, green, or orange, may be mixed in one scarf. Again, a scarf may be a velvet ribbon, tied to a bow with long ends; such a one of brick red goes with a brown woolen coat and skirt. A black woolen coat with a flared hem line and a fur collar is left open to show a Persian silk scarf of a rich mixture of colours.

Schiaparelli suggests coloured shoes with woolen day dresses. Of a red kidskin, low-heeled, with comfortably rounded toes, they go with dark tailor-made costumes and coloured bags; but how they will stand the winter remains to be proved. Gloves can also be ornamental; and gloves made specially for an evening dress look well. The Rodier materials with fringe woven into them are for little dresses and long coats. Sashes may have fringed ends. Alix has a leather belt with fringed edges. Crimped ribbons are worked into little collars and caps, and may edge collars and cuffs.

With sport and morning tailor-made clothes nothing is so frequent as the waistcoat blouse. Creed makes the front of checked or striped wool and the back and long sleeves of plain silk; the colours are mixed greens, browns, and reds. He also makes chambray and felt jacket blouses to go with long capes and loose coats of checked tweeds. He cuts silk blouses of the silk and striped satin on tailored lines.

The early hats of the season have high crowns. Some of them are eccentric; but many are becoming and not difficult to wear. Felt hats, like the deerstalker, are trimmed with a bright feather, and are usually turned up smartly on one side. There are also little felt hats with many corners, black, brown, or of bright colours, with veils or feathers or no trimming at all. The tall crown, either of felt or velvet, is trimmed with a twist of bright velvet at the brim. The beret, lifted high on one side, is worn with a quill or a plume or a tuft of ribbon. The fur cap, with or without a plume, goes with a fur-trimmed coat. The new hats are set towards the side, and all trimmings are on the crowns. For the evening there are all sorts of coiffures, including velvet turbans, tulle toques, ribbon bandeaux, jewelled tiaras, flowers, lace draperies, stiffened tulle veils, and embroidered bands; all can be set on the head as may be required.

Here's Another New Stuart Adaptation

Long and graceful lines are the outstanding feature of this velvet dress. Note the winged collar with facing of lace, and the small self buttons from throat to hem. The dress is fitted at the waist and gradually flared at the hem. It has a very full shoulder to the elbow, tapering down to the wrist. This adaptation from a "Mary of Scotland" costume is shown modeled by Eve Marsh.

BLACK WITH WHITE

A dark sheer frock, always attracts considerable attention at any formal occasion where most women would wear light clothes for summery prints. Patricia Wilder, young RKO Radio player, has a lovely evening frock of black sheer which has a border of white embroidered cut-out organdie. Triple "shoe string" shoulder straps cross in back and fasten at the low waist line.

Velvet Is The Vogue

A smooth, straight instep length wends its way through glamo-Jus tunic and mediaeval-styled evening gowns. Molyneux is making simple, straight and tailored evening gowns in velvet with double-breasted rever corsage or perfectly flat and merely belted by one of the heavy cord and tassel waist-belts. These dresses have no sleeves; one of dark brown velvet has no belt. A dark dahlia red model is given a daring contrast through scarlet cord and tassels.

The cord and tassel waistline is a fetish in this collection for both day and evening wear. In either matching or contrasting mood. These heavy tasselled cords replace belts and sometimes adorn necks to day-wear frocks worn with collarless coats. Bright green for bottle green is an example, but the idea only runs round neck or waistline—not both at the same time.

The great majority of evening gowns show no waistbelts, but easy semi-fittings that just swathe to on the figure for tunic and flat-fronted gowns, which are given graceful back widths from time to time. A number of these tunics are smooth-fitting round the hips and little longer than hip-length, with a full back in one instance, when bottle-green lace appears for a gown with high front corsage and open back "V" decollete. They have a tendency to lengthen outlines. Another type of tunic is the cut-away front away of black velvet with scalloped border striking a downward back movement on a tight black broadcloth skirt.

Velveteen and pout de sole, as well as velveteen and broadcloth, make interesting fabric comparisons with the velvet reversed from front to back or vice versa. This is an effective idea for the new unbelted silhouette, which looks exceedingly slender with mat broadcloth sometimes replaced by the new velour one that has a satiny surface.

Visualise a long, slender flat front of black velveteen and the back of pout swaying away from the figure into a godet spray and short train; or velveteen reversed to the back for a flat-fronted satin-faced broad-cloth completed by a black velveteen cape.

The evening line changes from the tunic to one which is a mediaeval compromise, with skirt softly gathered all the way round at the base of long semi-fitted corsets showing squared decollete. It is a charming silhouette in soft satin and plain lame as it sweeps the ground on an all-round width and is not too full. A contrasting colour is usually inserted round the squared decollete, and passes into shoulder straps—brown on white satin being one example.

Although chrysanthemums and dahlias often make attractive colour notes at waistline and corsage to many evening gowns, they do not occur on this attractive long-waisted mediaeval-fitted outline which is simple and unadorned.

FUR LACE CAPE

Platinum, café and cocoa browns are some of the new fur colours. Apple-green dyed ermine and fox is used for an evening model.

Wonderful things are being done with white cone, which is treated to look like a fur, lace, or open work embroidery in a sleeved cape model, and used as a multi-coloured fur shawl embroidered in a flower design, with fur tassels dyed in 18 different colours.

Trim Swim Suit

Jane Hamilton's swimming suit is dark red with a fine white vertical stripe. Red braided yarn trims the suit in front and continues to form double straps of the extreme back decollete.

Pert Black Taffeta

Not everyone could wear it, but on Anita Colby it's perfect. The RKO Radio player's cocktail hat is fashioned of black taffeta with two huge roses adding a pert and unique note, and has two wide streamers down the back.

HATLESS WOMEN LOSE PRESTIGE

There is one creative designer in England now, whose experience of fashion is international.

His skill in designing stage and film fashions is famous from Hollywood to Paris taking Denham. He is working at Denham just now.

The designer is M. Rene Hubert, and he has very decided opinions on (1) England's theatrical shows, (2) Englishwomen's good looks and slenderness, and (3) London's potentialities as a fashion power.

He has a word to say about hats, too; but not from the fashion angle. It is a nice point of social etiquette.

"ALL WRONG"

He says: "Women in London go dancing in the afternoons, and nights at restaurants and grills and often take their hats off. This, to me, seems bad manners. It is wrong."

"A hat, for a woman, is a protection; it guards her from all kinds of things."

"If a woman has a hat on, a man will respect her unconsciously more than if she has not. In London, a woman is protected in her house by her servants."

"If she has not got a hat on in a street car or in a restaurant. She has lost a standard, a prestige undefinable. You never see this looseness of etiquette in America, France or Germany. It is a drawback to English women."

MARLENE'S DRESSES

Here's a secret. It is easy to design for Hollywood stars. M. Hubert says, because they understand the power that individuality gives them. Marlene Dietrich, he says, is one of the most marvellously dressed women.

But, it's folly for lips to tempt unless their carers prove warm, moist and tender. So... Savage Lipstick also softens lips... makes them softer even than Nature does; assurance that Savage lips will always fulfill the promise their Savage color makes.

And Savage is really indelible, too. It clings savagely... as long as lips are wished to lure... and longer. None other is like Savage! Select from these five shades:

"In the Medical Mission whenever we have to substitute mother's milk we always use Lactogen and we find our babies thrive on it. FUR TRIMMINGS FOR CLOTH COATS

Coats for the autumn and early winter are lavishly trimmed with fur.

Silver fox, blue fox, Persian lamb, otter, and sealskin are the most popular pelts for trimming purposes. Whole silver fox skins are hung at intervals round the skirt of a coat. Seven or eight of them, placed flank to flank, form a panel front. Triangular pieces of Persian lamb are placed point to point along the flared hemline of a black cloth coat.

One designer uses half a dozen or more blue fox skins across the front of a circular cloak that falls in voluminous folds round the wearer's ankles.

Persian lamb and sealskin are allied. A cloth coat with a deep band of sealskin at the hem is stopped by a band of black Persian lamb.

Beaver is used on tweed coats as facing and on wide revers and for a high cosy collar. Cloth coats are fur lined. Henna-coloured fox is seen in the shape of deep cuffs extending almost to the elbow of a matching tweed coat.

Gold lame jackets, made to wear with black velvet or other evening dresses, have wide revers of mink or sable. New and interesting little wraps are short, circular fur capes, waist length at the back, shorter in front, fitted with sleeves. Furs are dyed in unusual shades this season.

Lamb of a pale amethyst colour makes the pockets (two breast-pockets, two hip) on the jacket of a suit made from amethyst and beige tweed.

Deep gauntlet fur cuffs are alternatives to others consisting of a narrow band of fur.

Detachable collars, short capes or square yokes allow the wearer to substitute another fur when she wants to change the appearance of her wrap.

Fur is introduced in an ingenious way on a short coat in which embroidered gold motifs on a blue background are framed in squares of bronze seal, used also for the collars and cuffs.

Cloth coats have sleeves entirely of fur, or fur is used for a puff above the elbow or a long cuff below it.

SKIRT OF TWO COLOURS

The split skirt lined in a contrasting colour will be among the new modes seen on the stage this month.

A pale grey frock with a split skirt lined with apple green has been chosen by Miss Adèle Dixon in "Over She Goes," the musical comedy that had its first night at the Saville Theatre, on Sept. 23. A pale pink knife pleated silk gown is lined in deep plum. Another of her dresses, of white crêpe de Chine, has a hem-deep lining of black.

The two-colour scheme is even introduced in Miss Dixon's shoes, which have heels in the colour of the dress lining.

THIS IS BRITAIN'S CHANCE

To Dictate The World's Fashions

King Edward's Coronation ceremonies will make London the social centre for thousands of American women. And New York fashion houses are already being inundated with requests for information on what will be worn there.

The manager of one fashion house said: "Now there's a real opportunity for London to dictate the world's fashions."

"Hundreds of American women who will be in London for the Coronation think that Englishwomen will be wearing style of particular beauty and richness."

Mr. David Nemerov, vice-president of another great New York fashion house, who has just returned from a visit to England, describes London as now "a fascinating field of paramount interest."

These Handbags Are News

Felt handbags, envelope-shaped and roomy, are very attractive. In rich dark colours, such as bottle green, brown, and Burgundy red, they are piped with leather to match. Just right for the new colour scheme launched in Paris.

With country suits of plain material, a smart touch is a handbag and scarf set carried out in angora, nubby woollen or boldly overchecked tweed. Tweed handbags have a wide leather strap-handle, buckled like a kilt fastening.

Two handbags in one should be an acceptable idea to the inveterate traveller. Closed with a neat zipper, the two bags are indistinguishable from one. When opened, two separate bags are discovered. One, lined with moiré, is a comprehensive vanity case to take toilet accessories. The other bag is meant for the sterner necessities of travel and is faced with leather. There is also a deep outside flap, securely fastened down, for passport and papers. Very smart in natural pleated.

Cloth looking like leather and enamel looking like wood—this is what some designers use for the newest handbags. A smart model in grey suede would be mistaken for grey flannel suiting, but is much more durable. The twin black and grey enamelled cigarette case and powder box look exactly like silver birchwood.

DEFENCE POLICY

The New Air Force
Reserve

LORD SWINTON ON NEED OF PILOTS

Lord Swinton, Secretary of State for Air, speaking at a Conservative fête at Naworth Castle, Cumberland, recently, referred to the strengthening of the Air Force and the need of men for the new reserve.

He said that what made this country looked up to to-day was that its people had stood together in difficult times and had had no resort to dictatorships of the right or the left.

This country was a rock for the world in stormy seas. If this country and this Empire went wrong he almost thought the world would give up hope.

Referring to defence policy, he said that they would go forward without panic, but with a firm determination to do whatever was necessary to ensure the peace of this land and of the Empire. He had not a thought or war in his mind. Most men of his age had had enough of war on the last occasion and were determined to do everything in their power to prevent their children going through that again.

There was only one way to make sure of that, and that was to have a force of peace in the world. First and foremost, the greatest bulwark of peace—Britain and the British Empire—should be strong enough to make it not worth while for anyone in a moment of wickedness or madness to take the risk of war, at any rate so far as we were concerned.

The strengthening of the Air Force meant a great call for men, and he was grateful for the way they were coming forward. In 1932 they took into the Force 144 pilots and just over 1,000 airmen. There was an expansion between April, 1935, and March this year, and they took in 940 pilots and just under 15,000 airmen. Since April 1 they had recruited another 900 pilots and many more airmen.

They were going to keep it up, and he wanted pilots for the new reserve. It was difficult for a man in business of employment, or for a young professional man, to give nine or 10 weeks on end, and he was going to meet that difficulty in his new reserve. They would bring the training to the men instead of taking the men to the training.

In the great industrial centres they would have reserve training establishments where young pilots could train during the week-end on the aerodromes near to the cities. If there were training centres in the towns where they could learn the ground work it would make it as easy for them as possible. He appealed to employers to give men facilities for undergoing their training.

the great ideal of eternal unity and truth, the halfway ideal of an all-powerful State organised in one form or another, demanding the entire subjection of the individual, not only physically and economically, but spiritually as well.

STILL STRONG
"Now, the spirit of man, in my humble judgment, cannot be at home for ever in the narrow cells of such a materialistic conception of life—it is the house with many mansions which alone is his proper abode."

For that reason he rejoiced that in his native Scotland they saw the spirit of religion and liberty still strong. What had happened abroad, where religion and liberty seemed to have risen together, and to have fallen together, should lead them to ponder upon the close relationship which existed between these two ideals so essential to the development of the spirit of man.

One did not fall without the other.

It might be that it was the sense of divine destiny that gave the spirit of man the requisite dignity to be free.

ALIVE AND FREE
He rejoiced that in their own Scotland they saw a Church, not driven backwards by the interests of some other force, but a Church alive and free, founding itself upon the purpose of its own people to meet the challenge of new times with an energy worthy of the necessity.

"It is for that reason in the wider sense that I rejoice to be present and offer you the little help I can to make this movement in this parish the success which it deserves to be."

"EVENSONG"

A screen transcription of the West End stage success by Beverley Nichols and Edward Knoblock, the Gaumont British picture "Evensong" opens to-day at the Queen's with Evelyn Laye in the stellar role.

"Evensong" is an appealing story of a prima donna who ignores the dictates of her heart for her art. Maggie McNeil, of Tralee, had a wonderful voice which her friend, George Murray, said would bring her fame and fortune if trained in Paris. Her father forbade such a move; Paris was a wicked city, Maggie ran away, was trained by Madame Valmond, christened Irela by Kober, who secured an addition at the Paris Opera House, and "managed" her for the remainder of her life. Irela possessed a marvellous voice, and capital after capital was at her feet for years. The thought of love was never allowed to intrude—her art came first—until a persistent admirer followed her to Venice and she capitulated. Her lover was an Archduke of Austria, and the young lover defied the Emperor, but he could not deny the call to arms which followed the assassination of his cousin. The lovers part. The met again, on the night that an audience had demonstrated to Irela that she was no longer peerless in her realm. Thus disillusioned she could not, would not, accept Theodore's offer of marriage and died of a broken heart, while Baba who had supplanted her, sang triumphantly in the green room of the opera house.

Supporting Miss Laye in the cast are Fritz Kortner as Kober, her manager, Emlyn Williams as George Murray, Alice Delysia as Madame Valmond, Muriel Aked as Tremlowe, Dennis Val Norton as Savino, Arthur Sinclair as Pa McNeil, Patrick O'Moore as Bob McNeil and Conchita Supervia as Baba.

"BIRD OF PARADISE"

Having played to almost as many legitimate theatre audiences as "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Richard Walton Tully's famous play, "Bird of Paradise" will open to-day at the Majestic Theatre.

The lovely Dolores Del Rio will be seen in the exotic role of "Liliana," created on the stage by Leonore Ulric. Joel McCrea, handsome hero of several of Constance Bennett's recent pictures, head the porting cast.

Filmed in Hawaii, this RKO-Radio picture is filled with the sensuous beauty of the tropics, and has been given a lavish production by King Vidor, creator of such outstanding pictures as "The Big Parade," "Street Scene" and "The Champ."

One of the episodes particularly praised by critics in metropolitan cities where the film has been shown, is the first native marriage feast ever to be recorded by camera and microphone.

An underwater fight with a shark, the flight of an entire village from the deadly lava of an erupting volcano, and a daring version of the holy, are among the other highlights of "Bird of Paradise."

The love scenes between Dolores and McCrea are said to be exceedingly enchanting, and a beautiful score of native music, running through the entire production, is an added appeal.

Miss Shirley Temple As "The Poor Little Rich Girl"

WHOLESONE NURSERY PUDDING

Miss Shirley Temple's audience is never limited to those notoriously kind ladies who fall into raptures when their dogs do tricks. One suspects that even those who regard child prodigies with honest distrust may sometimes be found creeping shyly in to try this innocent amusement. But then, though Miss Temple is a wonder, if only to have escaped the "cuteness" of the average child actor, no one will seriously expect her to have the unconsciously pretty ways of the inexperienced nursery. In her latest picture, a fabulous affair of an only child who wants to be as other children, she avoids as skillfully as possible most of the sentimental traps that directors still set for her.

Worshipped by her father, Mr. Barry, who manufactures soap and mixes business idealism with an almost maternal care at home that any right-minded small girl would find tiresome, she slips out in pursuit of freedom and an Italian organ-grinder.

From there it is a short step to the committee who put the plot together to temporary adoption by a couple of variety artists who see their fortune in this precocious tap-dancer. But since this is the United States the situation lies under the long shadow of the kidnapper.

The two Dolans, now successfully metamorphosed into "Doan, Doan" and "Dolan," and enjoying their new engagement in a broadcast hour advertising one of Mr. Barry's competitors, are already troubled by the thought of what may happen to them when their charge is claimed; and somewhere in the background is a real kidnapper.

This is no more than stiffening to the sweet, a faint, judicious flavouring to lemon.

The dish itself is wholesome nursery pudding, although in places fancifully embellished.

Nursery diners will discover quite a taste for grumpy Mr. Peck whom Mr. Claude Gillingwater allows to be subdued to friendship and a business merger, for Mr. Jack Haley as the first and the most foolish of the Dolans, and for Miss Goria Stuart as an American girl of a charm unusual in prospective step-mothers.

MR. G. B. SHAW AND HIS WOULD-BE CENSORS

American Film Version Of "Saint Joan"

A recent issue of the "New York Times" contained a 3,000-word letter from Mr. George Bernard Shaw protesting in the strongest terms against the attempted censorship of the film version of "Saint Joan" by the Roman Catholic Church through a group called Catholic Action.

Mr. Shaw declares that he has received an ultimatum saying that the changes Catholic Action requires must be made before the film is exhibited or 20,000,000 American Roman Catholics will be warned not to attend public exhibitions. Mr. Shaw, replying in great detail, declares that the stage version of the play has been acclaimed by intelligent Roman Catholics the world over and refers to the censors as "conceited amateurs" who do not understand the doctrines of their own Church.

He gives several instances of requests made by the censors which, he says, pervert history and cause the play to reflect upon the Roman Catholic Church in a way that has not been done in the original form. He says the censors demand omission of the well-known historical fact that Joan was threatened with torture, although they do not object to the portrayal of her being burned alive. Mr. Shaw was also asked to remove the entire episode of Joan's recantation.

SOME BARRIED WORDS
"That is what comes," he writes, "of conferring power over the drama which would tax the qualifications of a Gregory or a Hildebrand on a body pretending to represent the Vatican without as much knowledge of Catholicism as a village grave-digger."

Among individual words ordered to be deleted are the following: Paradise, God, St. Denis, religion, archbishop, deadly, holy, internal, sacred office, babes.

Mr. Shaw refuses to admit that Catholic Action can influence theatre-going American Roman Catholics and says that it has not the "knowledge or manners" to represent the Vatican. He recalls that one of the princes of the Church publicly decorated the first American impersonator of Joan.

"GHOST GOES WEST"

A haunted Scottish castle that is transported to America, complete with its ancestral ghost, provides the novel setting for "The Ghost Goes West," Alexander Korda's gay romantic comedy which brings Robert Donat to the King's Theatre in a dual role.

Donat is seen as Donald Glouie, an impoverished young Scotch nobleman who is forced to sell his ancestral castle to an American millionaire, and also plays the handsome ghost who stalks the Celebrating the Moon Cake festival Chan King, aged 28, married woman, threw fire crackers into the street. She was seen by a Chinese constable. Brought before Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy yesterday, she was fined $1. Sub-Inspector W. Arnitt said the incident occurred in Elgin Street near Shelley Street, and though the crackers were small ones, they were dangerous if they came into contact with anybody's eyes.

The defendant was remanded in custody for a week on the application of Inspector W. R. Chester-Woods.

ROBBERY CASE

Li Lin-fong, unemployed, was charged before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with having robbed a widow, Tam Yee, aged 61, of $50 and with having used violence before or after the robbery, at West Point on September 28. Detective Sub-Inspector A. J. Johnson said the case was for committal, and asked for a week's remand, which was granted.

Remanded on a charge of being found in No. 3 Lyndhurst Terrace for an unlawful purpose, Ngau Wai, 27, unemployed, appeared before Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy yesterday, and was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour.

MAN ATTACKED WITH KNIFE

Robbery Case In Kowloon

Li Yung, 31, of 7, Cheung Sha Wan Road, was charged before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday, for entering an unnumbered mahjong at Laichikok, armed with a knife and robbing Chan Fat of a canvas belt and $4.97.

Inspector Chester-Woods, prosecuting said that the defendant and the complainant were former fellow-foks. One day the defendant asked the complainant for a dollar which was refused.

The two men were put working together at Laichikok. Torpedo Wharf, to clear away typhoon debris. They built a mahjong with two apartments, one for sleeping and the other for storage.

On August 18, the complainant and two other men were in the shed. Towards evening one of the men went out to buy food. The other man went to bed, leaving the door fastened with a rope.

About 8 p.m. the complainant heard a noise. With his right hand pushing the door while the other held a torch, he saw a man trying to open the door. The defendant picked up a basket to cover his face. He then dropped the basket and rushed at the complainant with a knife in his hand.

The complainant suffered cuts both on his hands and neck. Unable to do anything against a knife, the defendant escaped with the belt and money.

Three constables came on the scene and was told what had happened, and reported to a station on the Castle Peak Road. On the way, the Indian Sergeant went to a soy factory to telephone. They waited for nearly an hour, after which they turned back. After walking about 100 yards the complainant saw the defendant in a bus.

The bus was stopped and the defendant was arrested.

The hearing was adjourned.

KEROSENE STORED ON LAUNCH

Re-hearing of the case in which Lin Yu was fined $150 for the possession of kerosene on board his launch in Cheung Sha Wan Bay on September 2, was continued at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, prosecuted. Mr. V. C. Branson, Government Analyst, deposed to the difference between kerosene and kerosene distillate. The hearing was further adjourned.

FALSE PRETENCES

Obtaining rice bowls and money on three occasions by false pretences, Li Sau, 20, unemployed, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday, and was fined $15 with the alternative of six weeks' hard labour.

Inspector R. Shannon, who prosecuted, said that the defendant was stopped by a constable in Shanghai Street, carrying a number of plates and bowls.

WOLFRAM ORE

Lau Miu, 27, charged with the unlawful possession of 84 cattles of wolfram ore at Tai Po Road on September 30, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday. The defendant was fined $15 with the alternative of three weeks' imprisonment.

EVADED PAYMENT

Appearing before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Magistracy yesterday on a charge of attempting to travel on a Mongkok ferry launch without paying his fare, Chung Sing, unemployed, pleaded that he formerly worked for the Ferry Company and thought he was exempted from paying. He was fined $10, or two weeks' hard labour.

COOLIE HURT

A coolie, Lui Wai, 33, of an unnumbered hut at Repulse Bay was taken to the Government Civil Hospital on Wednesday. A part of a retaining wall fell on him, while he was working for the Chik Sang contractors.

DISPUTE BETWEEN WOMEN

Three Visits To Police Station COURT SEQUEL

Brought before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday, two women, Li Mei and Cheung Sul, were charged with disorderly conduct by fighting at 72, Fuk Wah Street.

Inspector Chester-Woods stated that the defendants were arrested after they had been to Shamshuipo Police Station three times. The first occasion was when Li Mei came and complained that Cheung Sul, owed her $7. She was advised to take out a summons. The second defendant went to the station and complained that Li Mei had stolen her roast chicken, which she had prepared for the Moon Cake Festival. The first defendant was told to return the fowl.

On Tuesday night, the second defendant came to the station again, with her jacket torn, and complained that it had been done by the first defendant. She was told to take out a summons. No sooner had she left the station, when the first defendant entered and told the same story.

The defendants were bound over.

RETURNED BANISHEE

Li Wah, unemployed, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour when he admitted a charge of returning from banishment for 10 years before Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

"DEATH RAY" TO FIGHT INSECTS

New Safeguard For Grain

BY L. MARSLAND GANDER, "Daily Telegraph" Radio Correspondent

New apparatus for destroying insect pests by creating what was, in effect, a miniature thunderstorm was demonstrated to me yesterday.

It is the nearest known approach to the fictional "death ray" but it cannot kill at a distance, only exterminating its victims at close range.

The apparatus has been evolved by Dr. C. G. Lemon, who recently formed a Bacteriological and Pathological Section of the Radio-Society of Great Britain to investigate the killing and curative powers of radio waves.

He showed me recently in his West London laboratory how the weevil pest in rice may be exterminated. The grain passes down a chute, and is shaken on to a metal plate underneath a series of gas-filled tubes.

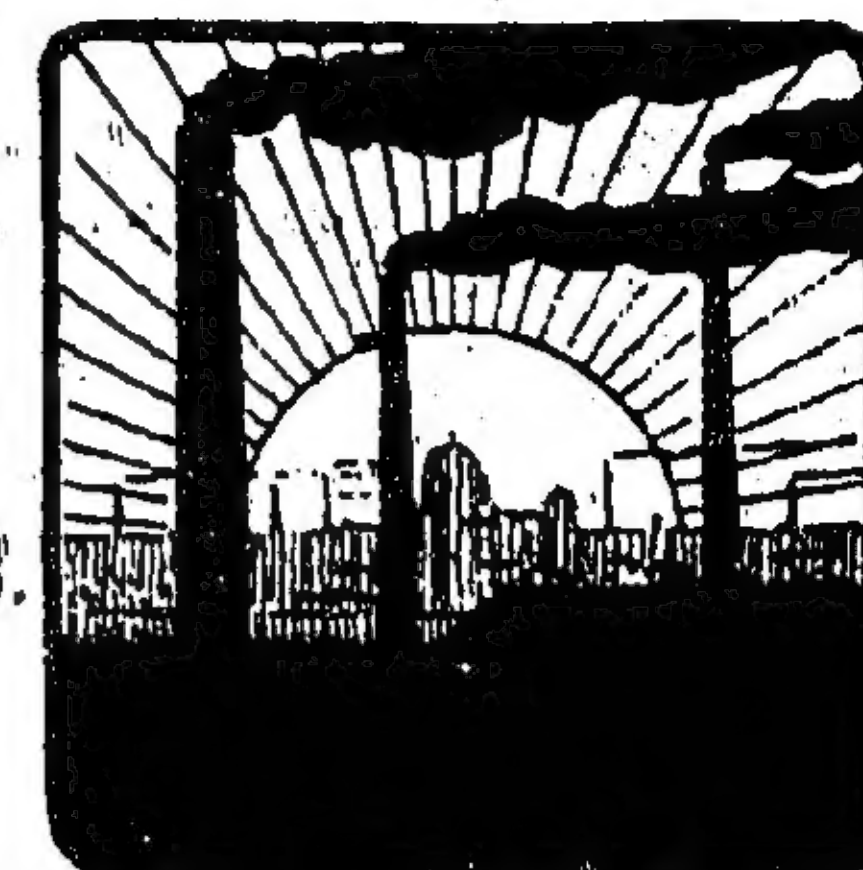

These tubes are electrically energised and radiations pass from the tubes to the surface of the plate at three different wavelengths, ranging from 40 metres to ultra long waves which are not used in radio communication.

When the apparatus is working the tubes are flooded with violet light and make a fierce crackling noise. Weevils, larvae and eggs are wiped out by this close range bombardment.

Dr. Lemon claims that a machine

Feeling "Run Down?"

Just suppose that right now you were talking to a physician.

YOU would have to confess to him that somehow you seem to tire very quickly nowadays; that your energy is gone and that now and then you feel jumpy and irritated.

"My dear man!" he would no doubt say, "look at the symptoms logically. Yours is a clear case of strained nerves. We need not go into how you got that way. The climate, hard and nervous work, late nights, they can all be to blame—but you want to know how to become your old self again. Why not start taking Sanatogen—it's really great stuff! It's made just for people like you, and I know from long experience that it will do you a lot of good. You have asked too much from your nerves, and with Sanatogen you replace the lost energy quickly."

Over 25,000 physicians are of the opinion that taking Sanatogen is the easy and logical way back to real health and vitality. Why not give Sanatogen a trial? Every chemist sells it. Start taking it now, then you will soon notice its remarkable influence on your health and vitality.

SANATOGEN

The True Tonic Food

costing £250 would be capable of treating ten tons of grain an hour. The apparatus, he says, consumes only 1½ units of electricity an hour.

Destruction of pests in stored wheat is among the problems of national defence. One of the greatest fights against wheat pests arose from the purchase by Britain's Wheat Commission in 1916 of 3,500,000 tons of wheat from the Australian Government. The purchase price was £28,000,000, and part of the purchase had to be stored in Australia for two years.

Cost of treatment to prevent the ravages of weevils, plus the losses caused by the pest, amounted to about £750,000.

MEDICAL EDUCATION IN HONG KONG

Interesting Lecture By Prof. L. T. Ride

A comprehensive study of medical education in Hong Kong was given by Professor L. T. Ride, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, University of Hong Kong, in a lecture delivered before a large audience at the Union Assembly Room yesterday afternoon. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Hong Kong University Medical Society.

Among those present were Professor W. I. Gerrard, Professor L. Forster, Professor C. A. Middleton-Smith, Dr. I. Newton, Dr. E. L. de Souza, Dr. K. H. Utley, Dr. P. F. S. Court, Mr. A. N. Macfadyen, Mr. E. L. Gosano (President of the Society), and Mr. K. W. Ooi (Hon. Secretary).

In opening his lecture, Prof. Ride gave an interesting historical preamble dealing with the Hong Kong College of Medicine, the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen and the Hong Kong University.

Professor Ride continued:—The history of medical education in Hong Kong began long before the University was brought into being and that we in the University are in duty bound to preserve our inheritance and uphold the prestige of medical education so ably begun by our parent foundation, "The Hong Kong College of Medicine."

At the opening of the University in 1912, the teaching staff of the College of Medicine became lecturers in the Faculty of Medicine and the students were transferred to the University. The next event of vital importance to the Medical Faculty was the receipt in the minutes of that body of the receipt in September 1913, of a letter from the Registrar of the General Medical Council in Great Britain announcing "that the Council had decided to recognize the degrees in Medicine and Surgery of this University, granted after examination, for registration in the Medical Register."

MEDICAL EDUCATION

It is important that you should realize exactly what the General Medical Council is. This Council was established by the Medical Act in 1858 in order "that persons requiring medical aid should be enabled to distinguish qualified from unqualified practitioners."

The Council has no power to make rules, but it makes recommendations and is in a very strong position to see that they are carried out, and this it does not in order to inconvenience Universities or other teaching bodies, but for the benefit of members of the public, so that they may have a means of recognizing a person who has had a reasonably efficient medical training and one who has proved himself reasonably proficient in his profession. We, therefore, in Hong Kong follow the scheme of medical education in England which briefly is this.

The student first of all before entering his university or medical school, must receive a good general education; this is ensured by demanding that he or she should pass an examination, such as a university matriculation which, under certain conditions is recognized as suitable for a general education test. The student then starts his course of studying the sciences of Physics, Chemistry and Biology (including Botany), the first two because, however much the practice of medicine may be considered an art, the principles of medicine are basically scientific; the last because medicine is really only one aspect of the human branch of the general subject of biology. Here the study of these subjects occupy one year and the examinations in them form the first Degree Examination.

SECOND YEAR

In the second year the medical subjects proper are begun with Organic and Physical Chemistry. At the end of the second year the 2nd Degree Examination in this branch of chemistry is taken and the successful student then enters on his third year where he completes his Anatomy and Physiology courses. In the former he learns the structure—both macroscopic and microscopic of the body and in the latter he becomes acquainted with the functions of the different parts of the body, and how these functions are correlated in the harmoniously working unit we call the normal individual. At the same time the student becomes acquainted with the action of drugs on the normal functions of the body—pharmacology—and after having been tested and found proficient in these subjects of Anatomy and Physiology including Pharmacology, which form the 3rd Degree examination he enters on the clinical period of his studies.

PLEASING EXPERIENCES

So far he has found the student life a joyful succession of new and pleasing experiences interspersed with a few weeks of nightmares in the form of examinations, but always (we hope) followed by the dawn of brighter days in the form of enjoyable vacations. He has sampled the struggles of athletic contests with his fellows and tasted the joys of social intercourse in the various societies university life has to offer. But now he comes face to face with devastating disease, with crippling accidents and yes, even with death itself; he hurries off to operations early in the morning, stays late at night dressing patients, goes about with measured tread, a penicillin and a conspicuous stethoscope, and eventually climbs back to his hostel at night more tired than he ever felt after returning from the sports field.

For three long years he must continue to serve his training apprenticeship in the wards, taking an ever increasingly active part in the actual treatment and healing of fellow human beings; he forms an integral though small part of the hospital mechanism; his absence from duty means either more work for one of his fellow students or more suffering for one of his fellow men. Each of these three clinical years is divided up into three-monthly appointments called clerkships; first come two medical and two surgical clerkships during which time actual cases in the wards are assigned to the students, who themselves are responsible for certain parts of the treatment, case reports and clinical laboratory investigations.

PATHOLOGY

During the next year the clerkships are in pathology, where practical experience is obtained in the study of diseased organs and of disease causing organisms (of so much more importance in tropical countries), in anaesthetics and practical pharmacy, in radiology and venereal disease, and in obstetrics; during this latter period the student receives practical experience in the conduct of labours both normal and abnormal. Concurrently with this, lecture courses in pathology, bacteriology, public health and medical jurisprudence are taken, and at the end of the fifth year comes the Fourth Degree Examination in these subjects. Then follows the final or sixth year with further clerkships in medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynaecology, along with instruction in those special subjects ever increasing in both numbers and importance:—vaccination, fevers, children's diseases, venereal disease, public health, ophthalmology, therapeutics and ante-natal work.

NEW VICTORIA HOME AND ORPHANAGE

Building In Course Of Erection

TO BE COMPLETED NEXT YEAR

The New C.M.S. Victoria Home and Orphanage has begun building and, strange though it may seem, it is building in two different places about fourteen miles apart.

To understand how this has come about, it is necessary to look at the plans made for the New C.M.S. Victoria Home and Orphanage during the past ten years, since the Hong Kong Government announced its intention to resume the old site and give in exchange a new site on a neighbouring hill, together with compensation for the old building. At first a larger Home was contemplated, with necessary hygienic improvements, more class-rooms, and dormitories. There was to be plenty of space outside for practical gardening and rearing of poultry where those orphans, "not fitted for scholastic life, could be usefully employed. After several plans had been drawn, considered and rejected, chiefly through lack of funds, it was suggested that the New C.M.S. Victoria Home and Orphanage should be built in the country, as many of the children cared for in the Home have tendencies towards physical weaknesses and nearly all arrive in poor health. The suggestion from this point of view was an excellent one; but, it acted upon, it would have meant the removal of C.M.S. Victoria Home and Orphanage from Kowloon City and the community would have been deprived of the Christian school in its midst, around which, much of the Christian life of the district revolves.

TWO BUILDINGS

From this emanated the idea that there must be two buildings for the New C.M.S. Victoria Home and Orphanage—one on the new site in Kowloon City and one out in the country—but how could this be? The financial difficulty loomed bigger than ever.

To show how these came, it is necessary to know that in Hong Kong there are two C.M.S. Schools housed in one building—St. Stephen's C.M.S. Girls' College for Chinese girls seeking an English education, occupies most of the upper stories and Fairlie, C.M.S. School, where Chinese is the medium of instruction, dwells below. It is not easy for two such schools to live in one building and both have been hampered, but at the time when re-building was necessary, there was not sufficient money to provide a suitable building for each school.

In 1930, when the standard of education in the Colony of Hong Kong was raised, girls who wanted to be teachers or nurses had to attend an advanced course of study for two additional years. This Fairlie C.M.S. School provided for the girls in the upper class at C.M.S. Victoria Home, so the two schools became linked more closely. Then came the suggestion that these two schools should unite to form one New School. The more it was considered, the more feasible it seemed, but what of the financial difficulty?

St. Stephen's C.M.S. Girls' College had been collecting funds to build a new Kindergarten Department. If Fairlie C.M.S. School moved out, the empty rooms could be used for the Kindergarten and from the funds collected, could be given to Fairlie the value of its share in the building. This added to what Victoria Home had received from the Hong Kong Government, was nearly enough for the New School.

"UNITED GRACE"

To-day the foundations of the New School are actually being laid in Kowloon City and the contract for completion of the building is February 1937. It is to be called "Hip Yun" C.M.S. School, which means the school of "United Grace." The character "Hip" is made up of the character for strength occurring three times and is preceded by a cross, commemorating the fact that the school has been helped into being through the willingness of each of three schools to make a sacrifice for the good of all.

The New School will have accommodation for a hundred and fifty boarders and two hundred and fifty day scholars. The curriculum will begin with the Kindergarten and continue through lower and upper primary, middle and upper high school classes to University standard, thus providing a thirteen years' course of education and, what is even more important, a 13 years' course of study in the Word of God. It is the first boarding school of its kind to be established for Chinese girls in Kowloon City. Let us thank God for it and pray that it may be the forerunner of many more such schools in the neighbouring districts.

Now what of the other building out in the country? It was beset with difficulties on every side. Where was a suitable site to be found? Hillsides were too remote, valleys were notorious for mosquitoes, pure water was not everywhere available, transport was difficult, cottage homes—ideal in Dr. Barnardo's villages—were opposed to Chinese custom and hence looked upon with dislike and fear. What was to be done? "All things are possible to him that believeth," so, believing that it was God's purpose for the New Home to be in the country, continued search was made for a suitable site, till at last one was found in the district of Tai-po—a beautiful expanse of undulating land stretching to the water's edge overlooking a "long arm of the sea." Pure water can be led to it and there is a beach providing bathing and swimming facilities.

FEAR OVERCOME

Out of funds subscribed for the new Victoria Home, this site was purchased. Then the idea was conceived of building separate cottages or units under one roof—each to be self-contained, where about ten children could live under the care of one "Mother." Only the European Superintendent or those in charge would need to pass from one unit to another. In this way, the Chinese dislike and fear of separated buildings has been overcome. There will be a common hall that can be used for Church, school and assemblies. The children will be taught and trained by their "Mother" to do the work of their home. They will spend a certain amount of time each week at lessons under a qualified Chinese teacher, who is also a graduate in Agriculture and whose services have already been acquired. The remaining time will be devoted to practical work on the land—growing of vegetables, fruit, etc., according to approved methods.

One of the first visitors to see the site, promised to provide two years' salary for a trained nurse so that the children might not suffer by living so far from hospital or medical aid. Since then, a Chinese nurse has promised to accept the position for a year and she will live in the Home. Another friend, realizing the difficulties of transport, as the site, though near a road, is far from the railway station and bus routes, has given a motor car. This was to be put into use at once by the teacher and eight orphan boys, who are already living on the site in a temporary makeshift. A separate building will be erected for them on the spacious grounds as soon as funds for the purpose are available. It is not likely that there will ever be many orphan

WEEKLY RETURN OF TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

19 Persons Injured: Four Killed

In the Colony of Hong Kong including the Island, Kowloon and the New Territories during the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, September 26, there were altogether 53 traffic accidents, as the result of which 4 persons were killed and 19 persons were injured.

Of the persons killed, a Chinese boy died as the result of injuries received when he was knocked by a bicycle, whilst running across the road.

A Chinese woman, aged 70 years, who ran across the road, was knocked down and fatally injured by a motor-lorry.

A Chinese girl, aged 15 years, (whilst running across the road) was knocked down and killed by a private motor car.

A Chinese boy, aged 5 years, who walked across the road, was knocked down and killed by a motor lorry.

Of the persons injured, 12 were pedestrians who were either walking or running across the road or playing in the roadway and were struck by vehicles.

Two tramcar passengers were injured whilst alighting from moving tramcars.

One bicycle rider was injured through falling from the vehicle whilst in motion.

Two bicycle riders and a private motor car driver were injured as the result of collisions between vehicles.

One bus passenger was injured when changing his seat, he collided with the rear window of the vehicle.

Of the 53 accidents, 24 were collisions between vehicles; 25 were collisions between vehicles and pedestrians, and 6 accidents were due to other causes.

MUSIC LECTURE

All interested are welcome.

boys, as Chinese homes readily open to needy boys.

It is hoped that the girls, when fully trained, will be sought after for wives by Christian farmers. They will then go out into the country districts of China carrying with them a practical knowledge of simple hygiene, of agriculture and poultry raising, that when put into practice will bring blessing and profit to those who adopt it. Chinese, like other people, are quick to appreciate what is profitable, so the girls and their services will find a welcome in the rural districts and the villagers will be helped materially, as well as spiritually through the instrumentality of this New Victoria Home.

TREE PLANTING

On March 30th, 1936, a Tree Planting Ceremony took place on the new site. The orphan boys prepared the holes and the trees were a gift. Sir Thomas and Lady Southrop, the Colonial Secretary and his wife, planted the first trees, and about seventy others were planted by friends of the Home who had come out for this purpose. It was a very happy occasion. Standing on an eminence commanding a view of the whole site, one could, in imagination, look down the years and see the trees grown big, providing delightful shade for the buildings and the animals, while happy groups of all ages were passing to and from about their daily tasks.

It is expected that the New Victoria Home will be ready for occupation by the end of this year. Thus the work, begun in Hong Kong just fifty years ago, by the Rev. and Mrs. B. Oat when they received mul-tals and orphan girls into their home to teach them, continued by Miss A. K. Hamper in the early days when Victoria Home and Orphanage was moved over to Kowloon City and later by Miss A. K. Store, when the Home had to be enlarged to accommodate all the needy ones seeking admission, is again moving on in its Year of Jubilee into larger and wider channels of service. — M. A. The Daily Press

HONG KONG, OCTOBER 2, 1936.

Advancement?

It is not perhaps unfitting that the British Association for the Advancement of Science, according to information which has just reached Hong Kong—should this year have promised us some doubts about Darwin's doctrine of the natural selection of species. Just a hundred years ago next month Darwin completed the famous voyage in H. M. S. Beagle, in the course of which the first hints of his doctrine appeared. Our present doubts are a measure of the advance and retrogression of science since that time.

The advance has been on an astonishingly wide front.

A scientist to our grandfathers was generally a man who dabbled in a laboratory—the modern, though somewhat more reputable, counterpart of the mediaeval alchemist. The scientists who will address the British Association at Blackpool this week include astronomers and anthropologists, doctors and psychologists, engineers and economists, electricians and zoologists, and many others as well. They will tell us not only about adventures in test tubes, but how the world began and how long it will go on, what happens to the food we eat, why noises are good or bad for us, what part engineers play in mass amusement. At the present rate of advancement of the British Association, not even the old humanities will long remain beyond the scientific grasp.

There are an excuse and an explanation for this turning of science from its once accepted meaning to the all-inclusive etymological sense. The excuse is that applied science has revolutionised our lives. There are few things in the work and play of to-day that science has not touched; and many of them it has adorned.

The explanation is that, over an everwidening field, studies are being conducted and discoveries made by the experimental method which is most characteristic of what were once called the "natural sciences." Because that method is sympathetic to the modern mind, we listen with respect to the theories the scientist has to propound. Because that method is now the common property of mankind, we are slow to admit the elevation of any scientific theory to the status of doctrine.

The scientist has done his work well.

Once we were all on the side of the angels. Then, when scientists took to theology, some of us went with these new priests to the side of the apes. Now that we are all educated in scientific principles at school and in the application of those principles by a faulty carburettor or a burnt fuse, we require the scientists to show just cause why we should accept their evolutionary theory, or any other. The attitude of mind therein expressed has far-reaching results.

Sometimes it makes moral and political, as well as intellectual and practical life, a perpetual question-mark. To take but one example, Nature no longer always does contrive.

That every boy and every gal, That's born into this world alive,

KWANGTUNG BANKER'S OPINION

New Monetary Pact Effects

Canton, Oct. 1.

With a view to obtaining information regarding the effect of the international monetary pact on the economic conditions of the province of Kwangtung, a Da-Dao representative yesterday called on Mr. Koo Yik-kwan, manager of the Provincial Bank of Kwangtung.

Mr. Koo said: "Since the United States of America, Great Britain, and France have come to an agreement, the economic conditions of the world will have a turn for the better, because the cut-throat competition which has always characterised the policies of manufacturing countries certainly will be eased to a certain extent, and the result thus produced on China will be nothing but beneficial. If these countries do not put their heads together, they will have to fight for the markets of the world, and with a view to attaining their ends, they would not doubt go the length of adopting the policy of deflation, which means that the economic balance of the world is upset, in which case China will suffer terribly."

"The governments of the world which are far-sighted have already come to the realisation that what is advantageous to all concerned economically, is good to itself and that co-operation in management of gold and silver rather than the competition in the buying and selling of these precious metals is of great value to themselves. In this connection, it is worthwhile noting that since the adoption of the policy of stabilisation of the exchange, be it international or domestic, by the Central Government at Nanking, the results so far obtained are highly satisfactory, and the introduction of the paper currency only helps to make things better."

"Has the rise of the Hong Kong dollar exchange anything to do with this state of affairs?" he was asked.

"No. The rise of the Hong Kong dollar must be attributed to seasonal variation. It has always been the case, when the Mid-Autumn Festival comes round every year. When Canton is finally persuaded to use Shanghai money, thus making possible the unity of currency China has long been hoping for, which, of course, will take some time yet. Canton will be much better off. This definitely shows that the economic condition of the province is not in the least affected by the international money pact."

Chinese Evening Press.

Is either a little Liberal,
Or else a little Conservative.

In one respect this attitude is healthy. An audience trained to the observation of cause and effect is less susceptible to the blandishments of charlatans. But it might be questioned whether, for most men and for many of their activities, scientific doubt is any better guide than philosophic doubt.

The late G. K. Chesterton, who slew many scientific dragons with scientific method, once remarked that clean cold agnosticism was like clean cold water, "which is a very good thing if you can get it."

The average man may not be able to get the clean cold water of cause and effect. The favoured few who do get it, are liable to be told, that scientists are no longer sure whether the law of cause and effect holds good. Can we wonder that so many men turn back to the comforting wine of preconceived and—scientifically speaking—irrational faiths?

JAPANESE MARINES HOLD MANOEUVRES

Stir Created In Hongkew District

SOME EXODUS OF CHINESE

Shanghai, October 1.

Japanese marines created a stir in Hongkew this morning when they marched out of the Naval Landing Party barracks and took possession of strategic points in the district as far west as Soochow Creek, dividing Hongkew from the remainder of the International Settlement.

Officially the action was described as manoeuvres of a "police nature," but it is believed that it was due to the possibility of disturbances in connection with the resumption of the hearing of the Nakayama case this afternoon.

SHANGHAI UNEASY

Marines erected barbed wire barricades, manned machine guns, and patrolled the streets in armoured cars and lorries. As the day wore on an atmosphere of uneasiness pervaded Hongkew, resulting in some exodus of Chinese, carrying their household goods in rickshaws and motor cars.

Throughout the Settlement the Municipal Police took precautions against disturbances and special constables were called up for duty.

ALLEGED DEMANDS

London, Sept. 30.

The right to station troops at various points along the Yangtze Valley, in order to protect Japanese residents, is understood to be included in Japan's demands for the settlement of differences with China, states Reuter's diplomatic correspondent.

Other demands are understood to include autonomy for five Northern Provinces, the right to edit Chinese school books in order to prevent anti-Japanese teaching, and economic co-operation.

There is no question, however, of Japan having presented an ultimatum to China nor is there any time-limit to the demands.

To Ride For Lord Astor

It is understood that Gordon Richards, the champion jockey, will ride for Viscount Astor next season.

This does not mean that he is severing his connection with F. Darling's Bechampton stable. Patrons of Fred Darling will still have first claim on his services. The Mantion stable, of which Lord Astor is principal patron, will have second claim.

As there are fewer good horses than usual at Bechampton now, and few promising two-year-olds, Richards will frequently be available for the Mantion stable.

When he is not available, the stable will have the services of R. A. Jones, who is also being given a retainer. R. Dick, who has been first jockey for Lord Astor, is giving up riding at the end of this season.

The police quelled any possibility of disorders by taking action in the early stages.

UNEASY FEELING IN SHANGHAI

Unexpected Resistance To Japanese Pressure

Shanghai, Oct. 1.

With Japanese marines in possession of all strategic points in Hongkew and the air thick with rumours of increasing Sino-Japanese tension, a general feeling of uneasiness prevailed in Shanghai to-day.

This is reflected in the steadily increasing exodus of Chinese from Hongkew and Chapel, recalling the scenes of February 1932. Later, however, the Chapel Police effectively prevented further exodus from their territory, although the flight of Chinese from Hongkew continued till late to-day.

Shanghai markets did not escape the general nervousness to-day and there was a good deal of speculative buying of forward gold currencies.

Well-informed quarters consider there are some grounds for the belief that the diplomatic situation is serious as a result of unexpected Chinese resistance to Japanese armed aggression in the Shanghai area might provoke active reprisals.

INFERIORITY COMPLEX AND DICTATORS

An inferiority complex among the masses is named by a Dutchman (addressing an International Union for Land Value Taxation) as a powerful lever by which dictators can work themselves into power. Put that way, there is the result of excessive hero-worship which has been distorted into unreasonable belief in the powers of a legendary super-man.

Democratic countries might also beware of the effects of too much coddling of their people. The more public authorities do for most of us, the less we're inclined to consider doing for ourselves. Democracy and enterprise cannot flourish alongside such an inferiority complex.

THE WORLD'S OIL RESERVES

Only 20 Years' Supply?

SIR J. CADMAN'S WARNING

It might seem peculiar to report that Sir John Cadman's statement to the World Power Conference in Washington, that existing petroleum supplies will last only twenty years, aroused singularly little interest among Americans. Such, however, is the fact. The paper was barely mentioned in the newspapers. It attracted little notice from the conference itself. The delegates seem to be more engrossed in the politics of electricity than with the techniques of its sister miracle worker.

Nevertheless, the subject, of course, interests Americans vastly. One simply cannot envisage a world drained of the great American pool. Last year alone five-eighths of world production came from the United States. Of all the proven reserves at least half is here. And the depletion of this country of its industrial elixir is beyond contemplation.

However, for the past generation the American public had been so often treated to these prognostications of imminent exhaustion of its flowing gold that it has become immunised to them.

In this country the experts began to emit their Jeremiahs a generation ago. An official report stated that there were only eight thousand million barrels of oil reserves. Demand then began to soar with the rapid development of the motor car. Fifteen years later, in spite of the interim consumption of these putative reserves, another official report placed the reserves at nine thousand million barrels. Last year alone one thousand million barrels were consumed. And now the A.P.I. reports that proven reserves are estimated to exceed twelve thousand million barrels!

CRYING "WOLF."

Having seen new oil come into use faster than old reserves have been exhausted, the public is now inclined to think that the Cadmans are shouting, "Wolf." Or shall we say that it feels that the United States must be a miraculous pitcher?

Nevertheless, the known reserves amount to only a "weave years' supply at the current consumption level. This supports Sir John Cadman's statement. The layman would think that the industry itself would be in a perpetual state of worry, let alone the general public. And yet Axtell J. Byes began a recent presidential address at the American Petroleum Institute by saying: "Last year developed the comforting assurance that there are within the confines of the United States sufficient petroleum reserves to meet the needs of generations, if not centuries. The important question we have, but how to make the fullest, widest, and best use of what we have." The twelve-year supply apparently does not bother the oil industry here.

Such confidence is derived primarily from the puncturing of past prognostications. New sources are constantly being tapped. Out of 21,000 wells drilled last year, 15,000 contained oil, and the liquid produced was sufficient to fill all last year's demand. This is the enormous rate of production needed to keep the twelve-year exhaustion period a ways in the distance—1,000,000,000 barrels. But Wallace A. Pratt, Vice-President of the Humble Oil Company, shares Mr. Byes's optimism. "It is perfectly safe to predict," he says in a recent article, "that many large new oil fields will be discovered in the United States in the future."

ENGINEERING GENIUS

The engineering genius of which Sir John Cadman is an eminent example, ekes out the American faith. Under old methods of drilling the sand which yielded the great flood of oil in East Texas had not seemed very promising. Then six years ago a new drill hit the Eastern rim of an enormous buried saucer, and a flood of oil gushed forth, revealing a diamond strike. Then new wells now go down as far as two miles. At this depth great tracts of subterranean America have been found swimming in liquid wealth. One such strike was made below the well-known Santa Fe field. It is possible, moreover,

EUCCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Special Privileges For Donors

Privileges will be accorded to special contributors to the XXXIII International Eucharistic Congress. It was learned recently from the offices of the Congress. The privileges will vary according to whether the contributions are P1,000, P500, P100, P25 or P5.

Individual contributors of P1,000 will be designated patrons. They will each receive a gold official medal of the Congress, a special diploma and a de luxe copy of the official Congress souvenir book. At the meeting centre on the Luneta, each patron will enjoy the privilege of a covered box on an elevated platform, containing six seats, which will be reserved for every function at the Luneta.

Reserved boxes will have special usher service, telephone service and a car-parking arrangement which will enable the patron to have his car come to the special entrance, both on entering and leaving the meeting centre. In the case of a contribution from a corporation or an association, these privileges will be issued to one individual designated by the corporation and shall not be transferable.

Individual contributors of P500 will be designated benefactors. They will each receive a gold-plated official medal of the Congress, a diploma and a copy of the Congress souvenir book. At the meeting centre they will have an elevated, uncovered box of four seats, which will be reserved for all functions held at the Luneta. Auto parking space will be provided near at hand.

Each contributor of P100 is entitled to one sterling silver medal, two seats in a reserved section near the altar on the formal opening day, on the Pontifical Mass Day, Sunday, February 7, on the day of the closing ceremonies and at all the evening general assemblies during the Congress.

Each contributor of P25 is entitled to one silver-plated medal, one seat in a reserved section on the formal opening day, on the Pontifical Mass Day, on the day of the closing ceremonies and at all the evening general assemblies.

Each contributor of P5 is entitled to one oxidized medal, one seat in a reserved section on the formal opening day, on the Pontifical Mass Day, on the day of the closing ceremonies and at all the evening general assemblies.

to go back to old wells and make them productive.

All these possibilities, exist in addition to the tremendous area—about twenty times the size of the United Kingdom—that still remains unexplored. It is officially described as "of geological formation which may contain oil."

Other factors justifying this hopefulness lie in better utilisation. The chemist has come to the support of the engineer. He persists in showing how to "crack" more petrol from crude oil. Nowadays twice as much is extracted to run the country's motor cars than was done when the experts began to make the people's flesh creep about the impending depletion of reserves.

AVOIDING WASTE

Waste, moreover, is being eradicated by a new policy of Government conservation. When new fields in Texas, Oklahoma, and California "blew off" in shrill protest against the dire prognostications—sights spectacularly registered in the news reel—the floor overwhelmed the price structure and disrupted the entire industry. Oil magnates representing this second greatest industry in the land were among the first of the rugged individualists to plead with President Roosevelt for Federal control.

The oil magnates are now breathing easily for the first time for many years. When East Texas began to erupt, oil became as cheap as water. Now it is well over ten times as dear. Sir John's report, which was not an expression of opinion, but merely a restatement of general technical estimates, thus set on unresponsive soil. The fear here is not of the exhaustion of oil supplies. It is of another avalanche—the "bringing in" of new fields which might have the effect of reducing the infant controls to new chaos.

BRITISH REARMAMENT TO BE ACCELERATED

POSITION WORSE THAN SIX MONTHS AGO

Vast Accumulation Of Armaments

London, October 1.
Addressing the Conservative Party conference at Margate this morning, Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, said that "faced with European rearmament we have no alternative but to carry through with the least possible delay our programme of rearmament."

"The position had become substantially worse since six months ago when the Government drew a picture of vast armaments being accumulated by the great countries. The latter had since added to their programmes, while small countries such as Belgium, Holland and Switzerland have been forced to embark on large schemes of rearmament."

GERMAN PREPARATIONS

"Two lessons stand out beyond fear of contradiction. The first is the facility of one-sided disarmament, and the second the need for a greatly strengthened British Empire as a stabilising force for peace."

"Germany has been spending at the rate of £800 million per annum on military preparations. In proportion to the German total of the budget devoted to the Army and Navy, this reached the striking figure of 48 per cent."

Sir Samuel Hoare also referred to the rearmament programmes of France, Russia and the United States. He declared that no wise patriotic citizen could ignore those figures.

The weakness, or supposed weakness, of the British Empire had to be proved by bitter experience, the disturbing factor in international politics, he said.

REARMAMENT PROGRESS

Referring to the progress of British rearmament, Sir Samuel said that the naval construction programme proceeded more quickly than expected.

Officers and men of excellent standard were flocking into the Air Force, while the new types of aircraft which will shortly come into use would stand favourable comparison with many in the world.

It was inevitable that after almost scrapping the supply of machinery of the Army in post-war years it will take time to restore it to its full operation.

WISE COURSE

Sir Samuel continued: "We have not yet reached a point when it is necessary to impose war conditions endangering the return of prosperity to the country. We still believe that the wisest course from a broad national standpoint is to avoid as long as we can any great economic upheaval of this kind."

"Perverted pacifism and partisan obstruction undoubtedly had an effect on recruiting, and the Government were taking steps to bring the nation's needs and advantages of a service career definitely before the country."

Sir Samuel Hoare appealed to responsible leaders in labour to assist as was done during the war.

There was nothing in the Government's programme which was not necessary for carrying out Britain's obligations by a system of collective peace or for sustaining life and maintaining the prosperity of a great people without whose influence the world would drift to despair and chaos.

Building of the Fleet and expansion of the Air Force were absolute essentials which must be assured. Requisition and strengthening of the Army was no less necessary. They could not agree on any disarmament proposals stereotyping Britain's relative weakness. If, as all hope, they could arrive at a general limitation, it must be on the assumption that our programme has been completed.

NAVAL PROGRAMME

Definite progress has been made in recent months and the rate would be greatly accelerated in future. The 1936 programme alone consisted of two battleships, seven cruisers, eighteen destroyers, two aircraft carriers, eight submarines, six sloops, and six motor torpedo boats. Eighty per cent. of the expenditure for the Navy has been in the distressed areas.

"Once again," said Sir Samuel, "activity was returning to stricken shipyards. Once again our suffering fellow citizens had a chance of honourable work to share in the great national effort."

Referring to the absence of Sir Thomas Inskip, Lord Swinton and Mr. Duff Cooper, Sir Samuel said they were actually sitting on the Committee of Imperial Defence.

A resolution endorsing the Government's defence scheme was unanimously adopted.

LAND MINES IN PALESTINE

Arab Attempt To Blow Up Military Column

Jerusalem, Sept. 30.
A carefully planned attempt to blow up a British military column by means of land mines was discovered in the nick of time today.

Transport, belonging to the King's Royal Rifles and the Wiltshires, disembarked from the Neoralla and departed for Jerusalem from Haifa earlier than was expected, thus taking the wreckers unawares. The column found the road blocked near Jenin by a number of half-dug pits. The troops repaired the road and the convoy proceeded safely to its destination.

According to a statement issued by the military authorities today, the British Army casualties since the outbreak of the disturbances in Palestine have been two officers killed and 18 wounded and 16 other ranks killed and 87 wounded. Ten others have been accidentally injured.

FRANCO VISITS ALCAZAR

Moving Scenes At Ruined Citadel

"SPAIN REDEEMED"

Toledo, Sept. 30.

"The relief of the Alcazar has been my life's ambition and now the war is definitely won," declared General Francisco Franco, who hurried here as soon as he received news of the insurgents' victory.

A wave of mystic fervour spread over the crowd assembled to greet him and all knelt as the General drove into the sacred city and alighted in front of the ruined citadel, where women and children kissed his hands.

Amidst moving scenes, General Franco entered the Alcazar's ruins. He had to scramble up a steep pile of rubble, leading to a mass of twisted iron, wood and stone which is all that remains of the great fortress. The General, who was forced to pick his way gingerly to avoid treading on unexploded grenades still lying about, dived down "the Black Hole of Toledo" finally, into the underground dungeons where about 100 people are still stretched out on filthy mattresses, almost in darkness, in a constant stench of mould and decaying matter.

General Franco was greeted by the mothers of the two babies born during the siege, and taking the baby boy in his arms he walked to the surface and, standing in the first light of day the child had seen, he was discerned holding high the infant for the crowd to see.

"This is a symbol that Spain is redeemed after a terrific and bloody struggle," declared the leader.

General Francisco Franco will be officially proclaimed tomorrow at Burgos as Supreme Head of the Insurgent Government.

FOOD RATION IN MADRID

Extortionate Demands By Militia

Madrid, Sept. 30.
The Government has decided to introduce a food ration system and avoid the daily lengthening of queues of people who, in any event, are able to get only half their requirements.

Stringent action is foreshadowed to check the militia regulations, which are often extortionate. For example, 270 cases of brandy were taken from the wine merchants during the week-end, allegedly for the men at the front. But subsequent "high jinks" in barracks proved that much of the consignment never reached the firing line.

A week ago a fashionable bar in Madrid was enlivened by the presence of eight British airmen; most of them temporarily "hard up," and who, tempted by the good pay offered, were fighting bravely for the Government. Now there are none. Three are dead, three seriously wounded, one convalescing in Valencia, and the other on his way to Paris.

ADDRESSES AT ASSEMBLY

Views Of Ethiopia And Spain

Geneva, Sept. 30.

The Abyssinian delegate to the League of Nations declared in an address to the Assembly, that that Abyssinian frontiers are practically blockaded and further resistance on the part of his country is impossible because of lack of provisions.

The delegate appealed to the Powers to bring about a solution of the Abyssinian question, because this state was a serious obstacle to world peace.

The second important address of the day was that by the Portuguese delegate, who discussed at length Portugal's attitude towards the Spanish Civil War. He said:

"There are Governments which speak of peace, but whose every action leads to unrest and war. Whoever seeks to disturb the peace of nations by propagating ideas incompatible with the life of the people, who incites groups against each other, and breeds hatred within the countries, has as his final aim. The advocating of the rights of the individual, in face of all rights of humanity, becomes in certain cases ironical."

In opposition to the non-intervention policy which Portugal also shares, the question of legality of the Government has been raised. Such a discussion is out of place, when tradition, culture, order, the desire for unity and greatness in a nation are at stake.

"Portugal desires that the struggle tearing Spain apart should soon end and that the solidarity of the two countries should be even firmer than before."

DEVALUATION BILL IN FRANCE

SENATE AND CHAMBER CONFLICT

Question Of Rise In Cost Of Living

Paris, October 1.

The Senate and Chamber conflict arose over the "social" clauses of the Devaluation Bill aiming at protecting the public from a serious rise in the cost of living which the Senate rejected on bloc although the devaluation, clauses proper were passed by small majorities.

Opposition to the Government's proposals were based on the argument that empowering the Government to fix maximum prices by decree would give the ministers arbitrary powers.

ADAMANT SENATORS

Despite a personal appeal by M. Leon Blum, who warned them against the danger of provoking a political crisis at the present time, the Senators decided to substitute a clause merely empowering the Government to proceed under the existing law against unjustified price rises which hitherto were virtually ineffective owing to vagueness and lack of proper machinery to enforce it.

COMPROMISE REACHED

Paris, Oct. 1.

The Senate, by a show of hands, adopted the amended Devaluation Bill embodying a compromise with the Chamber under which, if there is a considerable rise in cost of living before Dec. 31 this year, the Government will be enabled to establish by decree machinery for compulsory arbitration and conciliation.

AMENDMENTS DEMANDED

Paris, Oct. 1.

The bill concerning the devaluation of the franc was in its second reading passed by the Chamber in its original form by 351 to 217 votes. When the night session was resumed at 2 a.m., the Finance Committee of the Chamber announced that it had passed a motion accepting certain amendments to settle the conflict with the Senate, but was not willing to agree on the amendments of the clause referring to raising of the pensions. The right wing parties demanded several amendments, all of which were rejected.

The paper "Le Jour" says, commenting upon the conflict between the Chamber and the Senate, "either the Chamber will accept the Senate's proposals and several Radical Socialist deputies are trying hard to settle by mediation—or the Senate will cause a Cabinet crisis."

CHINESE OLYMPIC DELEGATION RETURN

Athletes To Take Part In 1940 Games

DEFINITE COURSE OF TRAINING

FOOTBALLERS HAD WONDERFUL TIME

On arrival of the Lloyd Triestino liner Conte Rosso yesterday morning with the China Olympic athletic delegation and footballers on board, Dr. C. T. Wang, head of the contingent, when interviewed, said that when the 1940 Olympic meet is held in Tokyo China will be there.

Although concrete plans could not be made so far in advance, he remarked, the Chinese athletes will pursue a definite course of training in preparation for the games.

"Although China did not make an outstanding record in the Olympic games in Berlin, it is her first real attempt and as such has been entirely satisfactory in the eyes of the team's officials," said Dr. Wang.

"A false impression has been given all over the world that the Chinese team had not been training prior to the Berlin meeting. The truth is absolutely the reverse. China had been training the athletes which she sent over and will continue to do so. The records showing which the Chinese delegates made is entirely due to the fact that," he said, "our best is not good enough. When we went over we knew that our records stood very low and were prepared for what was going to happen."

"This participation in the Berlin Olympics is not our first. We actually sent one man to represent China in the 1932 Olympics in Los Angeles, but our present delegation of 60 members is a decided step forward."

"So much can happen in four years. In the event of a war in the Orient, of course it will blow up plans for the 1940 Olympics, but we cannot plan so far ahead. I accompany the half of the members of the Chinese Olympic team that is going on to Shanghai, and I will be going on to Nanking and then returning to America."

LEE WAI TONG

Not Giving Up Football

The China Olympic football team arrived here yesterday by the Conte Rosso. They were all glad to be back again after an absence of five months.

Press representatives and friends clamoured for information as soon as they boarded the liner.

In the course of an interview, Lee Wai Tong, captain of the team, said he at first thought he wanted to quit football but after what he had been through, he had changed his mind.

He was well satisfied with the footballers' performances. In Europe, and was sure that everybody had benefited by the tour.

Lee Wai Tong said that the one reason why they lost in Berlin was that their last match was played in Bombay and because of the long interval the players were all stiff and out of form. The same thing is told for the other games, all the men were tired out before the end of the games.

"Both goalkeepers played remarkably well in this game," said Lee. "Wong Wing was brilliant, while it was the Chinese goalkeepers which stopped us from scoring several times."

STRANGE LINE-UP

"The strangest line-up I have ever seen was in Norway. There they had the centre-half standing just in front of the goalkeeper, the two backs, slightly more forward, took up their positions on the wing; in front of them covering the middle of the field were the other two half backs, then slightly in front of them the wingers on each touchline, and again in front of them the three inside forwards."

"And would you believe it," remarked Lee, "We actually lost one game by 11 goals to nil. This was against the crack Austrian professional team. They played the Scottish type of football, close-clipped passes, with the ball being kept moving so fast that you didn't know where it was next. No long passing at all. I think I got to the ball twelve times during that match. We just didn't see the way they went. But even more extraordinary was the experience of the Japanese Olympic football team, who lost 16-1 to a Zurich side!"

GOING INTO FILMS?

"What about you going into films?" Lee was asked.

He shook his head and smiled in response. "I don't think I shall," he replied.

"What about these allegations about you being a professional?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "I intended to write something about that, but I was advised by the Federation to remain quiet until the investigation which will take place now we are back. Because of this I don't think I have anything to say."

Mr. Wong Ka-tsun, secretary of the S.C.A.A. and Dr. C. C. Yung, are travelling back to Hong Kong via America, and will arrive later.

POST AS COACH

Ben Scharberge, a member of the United States Olympic team, arrived here yesterday on board the liner Conte Rosso. He is en route to Peking to take up a post as coach in the National Normal University. He was offered the job while in Berlin where he took part in the gymnastics and physical cultural displays.

IRISH AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP

J. Woollam Beaten

Portmarnock, one of Ireland's most famous courses, presented difficulties to the Irish Open Amateur Championship competitors recently, as the wind had shifted completely round and no hole was playing in the same way as for the first two rounds. Heavy rain showers also added to the difficulties.

There were several surprises, chief of them perhaps, being the defeat of L. O. M. Munn. Though it is nearly 30 years since he won the title for the first time Munn is regarded as a better player than ever just now, and two years ago he was nominated for the Walker Cup team. He lost to T. D. Purcell, a young University College student from Dublin, by two and one, after appearing to have the match won. Purcell was three down at the turn, but reduced his arrears just afterwards, and took three holes in a row from the 12th to lead. Two halves followed and then Purcell took the 17th in a fine 4 to win by two and one.

John Woollam, the English champion, survived the third round against A. R. MacCallum, but only by two and one. Turning two up Woollam lost the 10th, but won the next two holes. MacCallum took the 14th, but a fine 3 to Woollam made him dumpy at the 15th, and he gained the necessary half after losing the 16th. Woollam, however, was well beaten later by J. C. Brown by six and five. Brown, who won the Irish native title two years ago, has for several years been regarded as one of Ireland's leading amateurs. After a steady opening with Woollam he reeled off 4.5.3.3.3.5.4 from the third to the ninth holes to establish a lead of five. His best hole was the long sixth, where he crashed two wooden club shots to the green and holed the putt. Woollam failed to match these figures, and when the game ended

BIG SCORE BY R. J. O. MEYER

Lancashire's 11 Bowlers

A splendid innings of 202 not out by R. J. O. Meyer, the old Cambridge Blue, enabled Somerset not only to draw their match with Lancashire at Taunton recently, but to bring to a satisfactory close one of their most successful seasons for years. Lancashire, who deided splendidly during two gruelling days, took first innings points.

Somerset did well to avoid defeat as they began the day wanting 151 to save the innings defeat with nine wickets to fall. Half the team were out for 122, but first N. S. Mitchell-Innes and then Meyer baulked Lancashire in their attempt to force a win. Mitchell-Innes stayed for two hours and a half and hit seven 4's, but everything in the cricket was dwarfed by the batting of Meyer, who had the distinction of completing his first century for the county in less than three hours. Meyer took such advantage of his good fortune in being missed by Iddon, at slip, when 78, that driving superbly on either side of the wicket, he completed his second hundred after batting for three hours and 50 minutes, and actually made his last 50 in less than half an hour.

After the tea interval Lancashire did not take the cricket too seriously; at one time Paynter and Duckworth shared the attack, and every member of the side had a turn with the ball. Altogether Somerset's innings extended over five hours, and Meyer, who is only the third Somerset player to score a hundred this summer, obtained a 6 and 28 4's.

Lui Yue A. A. Leaves For Macao

With a view to cementing friendly relations, the Hong Kong Lui Yue Athletic Association has decided to send a party of members to Macao, where tennis exhibitions, friendly matches of volley-ball and basket-ball between all the schools and athletic associations of Macao will be staged.

The party, under the leadership of Mr. Lo Tsz-leung, consist of sixteen members, and will leave for Macao to-morrow afternoon by the s.s. "Kinslan." They will remain there for two or three days.

The following are members of the party: Mr. Lo Tsz-leung (Captain), Messrs. Ho Fui-kun, Chu Chi-sing, Lo Yuk-tong, Yung Wing-ye, Luk Man-lok, Lam Tat-chol, Taul Wai-pul, Choy Ping-fan, Wong Yiu-sheung, Fung Hing-tong, Hui Tse-tsun, Wong Yiu-wai, Wong Kam-pul, Ho Chik-lam and Lo Yuk-ling.

Brown was two under 4's for the 18 holes.

W. Sutton, the 1830 champion, reached the last eight and is in line for a meeting with E. D. Hamilton, the Scottish champion, in the semi-final round providing both win. F. McElroy is another who has reached the fifth stage and he will have a severe test when facing John Burke, Ireland's champion. Burke beat A. W. Briscoe by three and two. Briscoe won the first hole, but that was his only success, though he played well to take the native champion to the 16th. Hamilton was given a great fight by P. G. Campbell, who turning all square was not behind until the 15th hole. Hamilton won by the narrowest of margins.

CRICKET LEAGUE MEETING

Second Division Alteration

The annual meeting of the Hong Kong Cricket League was held yesterday in the Urban Council Chamber.

Mr. A. W. Hayward took the chair. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by Mr. A. H. Madar, Hon. Secretary and Treasurer.

The following officers were elected:—President: Mr. H. R. B. Hancock, Vice-President: Mr. F. Goodwin, Hon. Treasurer and Secretary: Mr. A. H. Madar.

During discussion, it was pointed out that owing to the number of matches being left unplayed during the season, it was decided that there be a fixture committee, composed of a member from each of the Clubs.

An alteration was made in the second division of the League. The Army are entering three teams "A", "B", "C", instead of the R.E., R.A.M.C. and R.A.S.C.

Teams "A" and "B" will be composed of regiments on the island and "C" will be from the mainland.

WRESTLING MATCH AT CANTON

Arranged For To-morrow

BETWEEN AGUINALDO AND WONG

Pantaleon Manapig, better known in American, Hawaiian European and Australian rings as Young Aguinaldo, one of the heaviest Filipinos known in the wrestling and boxing world, has returned to the Orient after an absence of nearly eleven years. Young Aguinaldo spent from 1925 to 1929 in the University of California, working the whole time and earning enough money to finance his four years. During one year, he worked in a fraternity house but gave this up to aid a boxing teacher on the campus in training the University squads.

In the summer of 1927, Young Aguinaldo worked in Alaska in a large fishing mill and cannery, earning enough money to finance his fourth year at the University.

KOWLOON GOLF

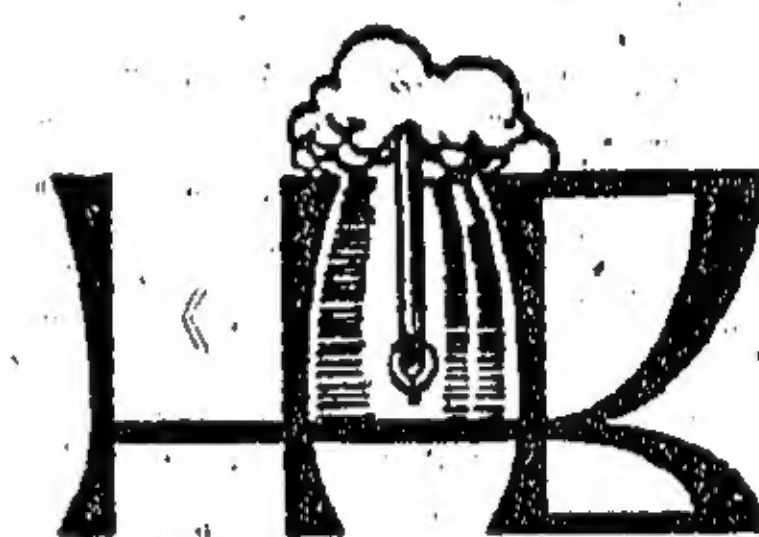

The result of the St. John of Jerusalem Trophy Competition, held at Kowloon Golf Club is as follows:—

Winner, T. D. Paton, 68-7-61; Runner-up, W. Taylor, 68-5-63.

He tried his hand as football, but found it necessary for him to turn professional boxer while still nearing the end of his schooling. In 1931 he became a professional wrestler, and has pursued this line ever since, but has not forgotten the high points of a boxer's training.

Young Aguinaldo has met leading fighters abroad and beaten a good number. After earning his diploma as mechanical engineer, he signed a contract for fights at the Honolulu Stadium, but soon left to tour the world, fighting his way around such places as England, France, Australia, Strait Settlements, and is going to exhibit his grappling skill on Wong Bock-cheung on Saturday evening at the Canton Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 p.m. Admission prices are set at $1 and 60 cents.

Aguinaldo has earned quite a name for himself in his past fight in Hong Kong.

SUPREMACY OF FRED PERRY A World Ranking List Of Players

Another international season on grass and hard courts has run its course. It ends with F. J. Perry's grand win in America, which puts another seal not only to his own supremacy but to that of his country, and, as though to stress the absence of a leading lady, the downfall on the same day of Miss H. Jacobs and Miss D. E. Round, writes the "Times" lawn tennis correspondent.

A survey of happenings that leave comparatively few vivid memories this year is a timely guide to ranking the world's first 10 players, at best an absorbing pastime for the chimney-cornerers in which, if the search for a mathematical basis be pursued too seriously, one is apt to find all the season's glamour and movement distilled into cold figures. My selection, based on the year's records since A. K. Quist became champion of Australia last January, is:—

MEN

1. F. J. Perry (Great Britain).
2. G. von Cramm (Germany).
3. D. Budge (U.S.A.).
4. A. K. Quist (Australia).
5. H. W. Austin (Great Britain).
6. J. H. Crawford (Australia).
7. B. M. Grant (U.S.A.).
8. J. Borotra (France).
9. W. L. Allison (U.S.A.).
10. C. Boussus (France).

WOMEN

1. Miss H. Jacobs (U.S.A.).
2. Fru S. Sperling (Denmark).
3. Miss K. E. Stammers (Great Britain).
4. Miss A. Marble (U.S.A.).
5. Miss D. E. Round (Great Britain).
6. Mme. R. Mathieu (France).
7. Mme. J. Jedrzejska (Poland).
8. Senorita A. Lizana (Chile).
9. Mrs. M. Fabyan (U.S.A.).
10. Comtesse de la Valdene (France).

No one in these lists has gone through the season unbeaten in the four great national championships, the British Hard Court Championships and the Davis and Wightman Cup competitions, except Miss Marble, who played in only one of them. Clearly the American lady champion must be in any list, especially when she has the strokes to beat the Wimbledon champion; and in this case there are "Miss Marble's" tournament record and her American mixed doubles championship to justify her high place. One great difficulty about compiling a ranking list, indeed, is that by playing more than others some players increase their chances of defeat.

SUPREMACY OF PERRY

Perry, of course, stands by himself at the head of the list. Wimbledon champion three times running, five times champion at Bournemouth, unbeaten in Davis Cup matches in the four years that Great Britain have been the holders, and a third victory in the United States by which he makes his own a cup inscribed with the names of the giants of the game—such, briefly, is Perry's record in 1936. It may well never be equalled. Just as Perry has dominated the scene by his incomparable speed on the ball, so it has been Budge rather than von Cramm who has pressed him most closely with his heaving, flat-hit backhand, which, like Perry's forehand, is a step in advance of the purists. Yet von Cramm is entitled to be our No. 2, for he is the only man to have beaten Perry in a championship match when he became champion of France again in that weird fifth set at Auteuil, and he was again runner-up at Wimbledon, even though a torn muscle made Perry's revenge distastefully formal. Von Cramm has delightfully clean, fast strokes and perhaps the best service in the world for its studious strength. Yet, like other stylists, his need to stand and swing discloses his intentions, to those who can read.

The two players between whom it is most difficult to choose are Austin and Quist. Austin has had one of the most successful seasons of his career, crowned by the grand victory over Crawford that meant everything to Great Britain's defence of the Davis Cup against an Australian challenge, but Quist beat him through his greater power overhead to make the score two matches all, leaving Crawford to stand up as best he could against Perry in a mood for massacre. For some time Quist has been among the world's great doubles players, but no one has made such remarkable progress in singles. His three match points against von Cramm in a roaring wind in the Inter-Zone final came in a five-set struggle that made us forget the disappointments of a wet Wimbledon, and his luck was so wretched that a flood of inconclusive agitation followed against the net-cord stroke. Austin is where he was, a distinguished master of strokes made more aggressively than ever, but still relatively weak in service and high volley, the big guns of the game that are so essential to the modern champion. His fight against von Cramm in the semi-final round was one of the best matches I saw at Wimbledon; as against Quist, he was beaten overhead.

The continued decline of Crawford has been a grievous aspect of the season. Still, he will always be one of my heroes, the man who became champion at Wimbledon and Auteuil by beating Vines and Cochet, and whose polished strokes even in adversity have an air about them. This year he came to us bereft of even his native championship, and having played his part in bringing Australia through to the last match for the Davis Cup—it meant beating America on their own ground—he left the Centre Court at Wimbledon with most of the responsibility for defeat, beaten in both his singles matches. Grant, a small man with a lion's heart for the fight, gets his place for the teasing returns, full of purpose, that have outwitted many a stronger player. His first Wimbledon made every one wish to see more of him; even Perry could not subdue his gay defiance.

BOROTRA'S RETURN

As the list goes on we come to players like Borotra and probably Allison, who, though they have passed their best days, are clearly still stronger than young aspirants to their places, such as C. E. Hare and B. Destremau, or those whose high promise, like that of V. B. McGrath, has been dimmed by an unhappy season. Borotra, in Austin's absence last year, again became the British champion on wood, a surface on which few players above him in the list would feel sure of beating him. He is the French doubles champion, and his exploits at Wimbledon with J. Brugnon must surely justify a place among the best 10 players in the world. Though there are probably other players in America with a strong claim to Allison's place, at least he led the Davis Cup team into the field as the national champion. I would have liked to see G. P. Hughes in the tenth place for his splendid season in doubles; but after all he had a fine partner in C. D. R. Tuckey. Boussus has never taken the place to which fine strokes entitled him. Yet it took Perry and von Cramm to beat him at Auteuil and Wimbledon.

The season's form among the ladies was even more confusing than usual. In the absence of Mrs. F. S. Moody our No. 1 must be Miss Jacobs for her Wimbledon Championship, even though both Miss Stammers and Miss Round beat her in the Wightman Cup, which, like the Davis Cup, was packed with more good play and excitement than most of the Wimbledon meeting. How Great Britain managed not to win back the cup after their fine beginning has been the mystery of the season. It seems likely that Miss Stammers and Miss Round will again be equal No. 1 in the English ranking when local tournaments are considered. Both are doubles champions at Wimbledon, but in

HALSE OUT OF AIR RACE

Crash Within Sight
Of Goal

AIRMAN UNHURT

London, Sept. 30. Captain S. S. Halse, of Johannesburg, when within a few hours of his destination and the first prize in the London-Johannesburg air marathon, crashed his plane at Salisbury to-day. He was taken to hospital with slight bruises about the head and has withdrawn from the race.

Victor Smith, living up to his reputation as "Unlucky Victor" by his forced landing 20 miles from Salonika, has called for assistance and says he intends to resume his flight after repairs are made to his plane.

There is the utmost disappointment at Johannesburg at the news of Captain Halse's crash. Practically the whole population had gathered at the illuminated airport and hot refreshments and petrol and oil were ready for the airman in case he decided to push on to the Cape and try for a record for that distance.

SCOTT TRYING

Meanwhile, Charles Scott, co-winner of the London-Melbourne race of 1934, and David Llewellyn, both of them flying Percival Vega Gulls, are now racing for first place.

Scott has reached Abercorn, landing at 7.35 p.m., and looking dazed and very tired. He may rest a while. Llewellyn has not been heard from since passing over Entebbe in the afternoon.

Third comes Max Findlay, who has been held up by engine trouble but is now due to leave Khartoum at 10.30 p.m. after a stay of seven hours. He has rectified the slight damage caused in a forced landing at Kermi, 400 miles from Khartoum.

This morning, A. E. Clouston, whose chances yesterday were so rosy, was still held up at Cairo with engine trouble. He has not announced whether he will continue.

The only other survivor of the nine starters is Victor Smith, down near Salonika, but gamely grappling with engine trouble. He is itching to restart and is at least assured of one of the four handicap prizes, if he reaches Johannesburg within five days.

Smith Leaves
London, Sept. 30. Victor Smith has repaired his machine and has left for Athens, continuing to participate in the handicap race. Cairo airport is remaining illuminated for him to-night.

CRASH NEAR END OF RACE

London, Sept. 29. Captain Halse, who is flying a Percival Mew Gull and has been leading in air race from England to Johannesburg almost from the start made a forced landing at 5.30 p.m. British Standard Time, 20 miles from Salisbury and only 650 miles from Rand airport at Germiston where the race ends.

His machine crashed but he himself was not hurt according to first reports. Up to the time of the accident the cause of which is not stated he had taken just on 35 hours for a flight of 5,520 miles at an average speed, neglecting halts, of 1576 miles an hour. At the last landing place Capt. Halse had complained of fatigue and air sickness due to bumpy conditions. According to earlier reports Scott and Guthrie, in a Vega Gull, were next behind Capt. Halse in the race having left Kesumu, Kenya at 2.20 p.m. British Standard Time. Llewellyn and Hughesden in another Vega Gull left Entebbe at 2.10 p.m. British Standard Time.

British Wireless

The international field Miss Stammers won again at Bournemouth and her visit to America has been by no means unsuccessful. Both have attacking drives and volleys that should lead the world and sometimes have done, with a continued tendency, however, to be as unhappy one day as they were gaily dominant the day before. The rest of the list must explain itself; it is significant that the Comtesse de la Valdene, with her drive-volley as firm as ever, returns to it just as Borotra does among the men.

U. S. BASEBALL

Opening Game Of World Series

GIANTS WIN

New York, Sept. 30. The New York Giants won the opening game of the World Series by six runs to two to-day, Hubbell, their ace pitcher, playing magnificently under the worst possible conditions. Ruffing pitching throughout for the Yankees, lost control for a moment in the eighth inning and allowed the Giants to get into a position to score four times on three hits, his mates throwing wildly in the crises.

Giants hit nine times safely and Yankees seven. Up to the eighth inning the Giants had only led by two to one. Selkirk scored first for the Yankees, hitting a homer in the third with no one on. Bartell equalised in the fifth, cracking out a home run. In the sixth Man-cuso hit a single which put Ott across the plate and gave the Giants a lead they never relinquished.

The cold, raw weather kept down the crowd to 48,000. Rain began to fall at the end of the second inning and the field was soon drenched and slippery. The worst World Series conditions in ten years prevailed.

RECORD JUMP TO SUICIDE

By jumping to his death from the top of the world's highest building, New York's Empire State, a young man recently achieved the record of being the first person to fall all 86 floors to the street, a distance of 1045 feet.

Suicide has been tried thrice previously from the tower on the top of the skyscraper, but each time the body has been prevented from reaching the street either by striking a canopy over a pavement doorway or being caught by one of the "steps" in the building's structure.

The victim—Robert Francis Erskine (22), a research worker employed by a news magazine—was seen to climb over the parapet. He was heard to call to some sightseers—"Well, so long, folks!" as he threw himself outward and downward.

VERITY'S 200 WICKETS

Yorkshire Gain An Easy Victory

Yorkshire finished their county programme in good style at Bournemouth recently, beating Hampshire by 10 wickets. Finding the dusty pitch to his liking Verity varied his pace and flighted and spun the ball with all his usual skill, and took six wickets for 74 runs.

When he met with his fifth success recently Verity had the distinction of taking his two-hundredth wicket of the season, a feat he accomplished for the second time in his career.

With nine wickets in hand Hampshire required 184 runs to avoid being beaten in an innings, but judging from the way R. H. Moore and C. G. A. Paris began it seemed as though the home team were trying to force a victory instead of fighting against defeat. Moore's enterprise brought about his downfall, for after pulling Verity for 4 he tried to repeat the stroke and was caught at square-leg. Mead continued the free scoring, and forsaking his usual dogged style he made 52 out of 77 in 80 minutes.

After his bright start Paris fell back on defence. Indeed, so slowly did he progress that he spent three and a quarter hours over 58. Following the dismissal at 186 of Paris, Hampshire collapsed badly, and although the arrears were cleared off with four wickets in hand Yorkshire required only 25 for victory. Hampshire's last five wickets went down for 42 runs.

SCOTT WINS AIR MARATHON

GREETINGS FROM HOME

Johannesburg, Oct. 1. Neither of the airmen looked as grave-stained and fatigued as record breakers generally are. With a customs officer carrying his belongings, Scott walked to the airport office where he had a glass of beer poured out for him, but before he had time to touch it the telephone rang. He had to answer congratulatory calls from England and was many minutes before he could touch refreshment so tantalizingly near him.

DUAL VICTORY

London, Oct. 1. C. W. A. Scott, victor in the England-Melbourne air race, added the England-Johannesburg victory to his laurels. He and Guthrie landed at Johannesburg at 11:34 a.m. B.S.T., having covered 6,154 miles in the official time of 52 hours 46 minutes 12 seconds, an average of 123 miles per hour. This is over nineteen hours less than Amy Molson's England-Cape record. Thus he decides to carry on to the Cape. Scott will have nineteen hours in which to establish a new England-Cape record.

The winner of the handicap race is still in doubt. Waler is now between Entebbe and Broken Hill. Gouston is still repairing his engine at Khartoum. Victor Smith is repairing his machine at Salonika and still hopes to complete the course.

EXCITING DASH

London, Oct. 1. After an exciting dash over the final lap of 1,250 miles from Abercorn, C. W. A. Scott and Giles Guthrie, flying a Vega Gull-plane, arrived at Johannesburg airport this morning. Their handicap is over thirteen hours, but they are so far ahead of other competitors still left in the great race that they are almost certainly winners of the £10,000 prize.

Their progress is shown below, the times being British Summer Time throughout, namely, Tuesday 6.38 a.m. left Portsmouth, 2.08 p.m. over Belgrade, 5.54 p.m. arrived Salonika, 6.22 p.m. left Salonika, 11.15 p.m. left Cairo, Wednesday 5.42 a.m. arrived Khartoum, 5.55 a.m. left Khartoum, 1.23 p.m. arrived Kismu, 1.44 p.m. left Kismu, 7.35 p.m. arrived Abercorn; Thursday 3.45 a.m. left Abercorn, 11.32 a.m. arrived Johannesburg.

OTHER COMPETITORS

The other Percival Vega Gull aeroplane piloted by D. W. Llewellyn and C. F. Hughesdon had been racing neck and neck with Scott, and when news was received that Captain S. S. Halse, who in his Mew Gull was leading by several hours had crashed near Salisbury, interest in this duel quickened.

A message from Abercorn this morning, however, stated that Llewellyn had crashed on the shores of Lake Tanganyika. The airmen were unhurt, apart from scratches, but the damage to the machine was such as to put it out of the race.

A Johannesburg report states that a further operation was performed on Captain Halse last night and he is progressing favourably.

Max Findlay and Kenneth Waller in an Alispred Envoy were about 1,000 miles behind Scott when they left Khartoum at 11 p.m. yesterday. They were reported at Entebbe at 6.41 a.m. to-day.

Latest reports state that Flying Officer Clouston in a Miles Hawk is still held up at Khartoum.

British Wireless.

LLEWELLYN MEETS BAD LUCK

Johannesburg, Oct. 1. Llewellyn, for whom anxiety was felt since he passed Entebbe at 2.15 p.m. B.S.T. yesterday, crashed on the shore of Lake Tanganyika. The plane was wrecked but both occupants are safe.

Llewellyn was actually ahead of Scott when he crashed near Mpungu. He was trying to find the Abercorn aerodrome, but visibility was bad owing to great clouds and smoke from grass fires. His petrol supply was exhausted, causing him to crash.

COLONY DANCING CHAMPIONSHIP

Miss Sykes is not only a competition dancer but is also on the Board of Examiners of the Imperial Society of Teachers of Ballroom Dancing, and has adjudicated in London and Paris such as the All England Championship, The World's Dancing Championship, The Star Dancing Championship and many others.

Mr. J. A. Andrew who is well known to Hong Kong is also rully qualified as he holds a certificate as a Fellow of the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing.

We give here the rules and regulations for the Second Official Hong Kong Championship.

The championship will be judged on 3 Dances:—

1. The Waltz
2. The Quick Fox Trot
3. The Slow Fox Trot

It is open to all amateur dancers. Two couples will be chosen from each heat daily to compete in the finals—one by popular vote and one by judges' decision.

No couple passed through to the finals can re-enter any other heat or change their partners, but any couple not qualifying on day of entry can re-enter.

The finals will be decided by the judges' decision only.

The judging will be based on the following points:—

1. Style
2. Time and Rhythm
3. Movement
4. Deportment
5. Rise and Fall

During the week of the championship Mr. J. A. Andrew and Miss Pat Sykes will daily demonstrate the basic steps of the 3 dances to enable competitors to see what they are expected to do.

TYPHOID

Six cases of typhoid, four occurring in Hong Kong and two in Kowloon and Rural Hong Kong, and three cases of diphtheria were notified to the local Health authorities on Wednesday.

KING'S MEMORIAL

The area selected for Victoria is the beautiful garden of the present Government Civil Hospital, which will no longer be required when the Queen Mary Hospital opens next year. The Maternity Block and Medical Officer's quarters can be demolished and there will then be room for three playgrounds and (if funds permit) for a paddling pool, without encroachment on the fine lawn that already exists. The many lovely trees, which luckily escaped mutilation by the recent typhoon, would of course be preserved in any future layout.

In Kowloon there is a sufficiently large unallotated space at the Northern end of Canton Road just before it joins Jordan Road. It contains at present some rocky hummocks but, given funds, these can be easily leveled off or converted into terraced gardens. More would have to be done here than at the Civil Hospital, but there is no reason why an equally useful and pleasant result should not emerge. If, however, this area can be exchanged for one even more suitable the Government will consider such an exchange.

The Government's contribution to the scheme will be the preservation of these areas as open spaces, their preparation and equipment depending upon public subscription. The erection of commemorative arches or gates, as under the Home Scheme, would doubtless meet with general approval but (although tentative sketch-plans are being got out) the local Scheme is not yet tied to any set design. All subscriptions will be handed over to the Urban Council, and with them will be the responsibility of getting the fullest value for money in the lay-out, equipment and beautification of both areas. It is considered that future maintenance would be a fair charge on urban revenues and voluntary subscriptions will therefore be utilised entirely on initial development.

SUBSCRIPTIONS NEEDED
The Governor earnestly invites subscriptions to this Scheme, which should be paid into the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce or the Tung Wah Hospital. His Excellency is most grateful for these indications for this service of collection. Cheques should be made payable to "King George V Memorial Fund" and crossed.

In launching this appeal the Governor hopes that the Scheme will commend itself as strongly to the general public as it does to his colleagues on the Executive Council and Finance Committee and to himself, and that it will meet with a truly generous response. The receipt of donations will be acknowledged in the newspapers, by kind permission of the Editors.

HARBOUR INCIDENT

While the Star Ferry launch Northern Star was journeying from Kowloon to Hong Kong about 11.10 a.m. yesterday, a man named Chan Tok, aged about 25 years, accidentally fell or jumped into the harbour. He was unable to swim and was rescued by a passing motorboat and taken back to the ferry. Chan was subsequently taken to hospital. A police report states that he resided at the Tai Lau Sin Boarding house.

KWANGSI TROOP REVIEW

Nanking, Oct. 1. It is reported that the Commander of the Fourth Division Army has decided to hold a great review of the troops and volunteers at Nanking on the "Double Tenth" Anniversary, i.e. October 10, 1936, and orders have been issued to the different Commanders to be prepared for this review.

It is also expected that the Provincial Students' Athletic Meet will be held on the same day.
